A really individual way of showing a life story. I loved the bunch of flowers with the child's hands. Great colouring skills and good to see what is important to the child. Fantastic work!

The stages in this child's life are very clear and what is important to them too, such as having a big sister.

I love the handprints, used as a bunch of flowers and tied with a ribbon, because they are really important and a unique part of who the child is and their identity. Nobody has the same handprints as them - the same as nobody has exactly the same life story as them. This is a lovely piece of life journey work and is beautifully presented.
