A truly amazing piece of work. It is such a unique family tree/life story layout. I got a real sense of who the child is, what they like, and all the important people in their life. Visually the piece is great and each time I look at it I see new things I hadn't noticed before. There has obviously been so much hard work put into it especially colouring in all that background it much have taken ages so well done.

This was so interesting to absorb – not only the child's story – events and likes – but how the family around him is portrayed. Having had memories of him when small I really enjoyed seeing him as he is today and also enjoyed following his journey.

This is a beautiful piece of art work, I loved the fact that this person has drawn around the silhouette of their body and created a tree, with the roots being the beginning of the life journey and their whole body is made up of people and things and places that are important to them and make up part of them. Such a fantastic idea to show how all of the parts of your life journey is a part of who you are.
