

Your Life - Your Journey

Such a beautiful poem that made me cry. What an amazing understanding of all the emotions the child lives with because of their life journey so far. I think this piece of work would help a lot of other children in the same situation understand themselves better and show them that they are not the only ones feeling like this. A truly magnificent piece of work and thank you to the child for being so honest about how they feel. I was deeply moved by their poem and hope that they carry on writing in the future, well done.

A beautiful poem, full of different emotions. A great way of telling people their life story, as well as the importance of asking questions about their past life. I was moved by the child's honesty and I felt I got a real sense of who they are and how they feel on different days. I was overcome with emotional reading the poem. Well done and keep writing!

This is a brilliant poem; it is such a fantastic way of showing that life journey work is about so much more than a story book. It's also about all of the questions you have, all of your thoughts and how you feel about them. It's also about how you feel differently on different days, sometimes happy, sometimes worried sometimes angry. It says so much about the person, who they are, what they like, what they worry about, how they feel ... this is a superb piece of life journey work!!! Well done!
